You haven't had phenomenal until you've had the Cohiba #spectre. After talking to Sean Williams about the cigar, he let me know that the wrapper comes from Nicaragua's Jalapa region while the binder is a Connecticut broadleaf and a filler that contains Brazilian mata fina and Nicaraguan tobaccos from Jalapa and Estelí. Such a smooth and creamy smoke with tons of flavor. There was so much talk about this cigar at the show I decided not to pair it with anything and it was delicious. The price tag is a little on the hefty side but comes in a beautiful box set. I hope you enjoy like I did and the next one will have a pairing. Cohiba Blue

The Cohiba Blue riffs a new take on this classic brand offering not only a new taste but a super-nice price. The legendary Cuban-heritage of Cohiba is not lost on this blue blend. It shows off more of an everyday smoke than its pricey cousin. The medium-bodied profile is patiently handcrafted in the Dominican Republic in a handful of classic formats. A spicy, and tasty smoke starts with a Honduran wrapper over Dominican, Nicaraguan and Honduran long-filler blending leaves. Highlights in taste and aroma include Notes of coffee, molasses and baking spice. The cool blue look is elegant and approachable. Smoke one for yourself.

Thailand Yacht Show 2016

The first edition of the Thailand Yacht Show took place in Phuket in 2016. The event was held in the Ao Po Grand Marina and experienced an unexpectedly high turnout of superyachts. During the show, Northrop & Johnson sat on a panel of industry leaders regarding the discussion on the status of the superyacht charter licenses. The show itself very much was "business as usual" with dealers and brokers unanimously expressing satisfaction with the way the event unfolded. Northrop & Johnson was pleased with the success of the first edition of the Thailand Yacht Show.

02

Palm Beach International Boat Show 2016

The Intracoastal Waterway along the banks of West Palm Beach, Florida, was hull-to-hull with impressive superyachts during the 2016 Palm Beach International Boat Show. Northrop & Johnson hosted guests, clients and strategic partners at our stand in our new location off D Dock near the VIP entrance. As one of the biggest in-water superyacht exhibitors, Northrop & Johnson had 12 brokerage yachts in the show. Also on display at the Northrop & Johnson stand was Goldfinch's latest creation: the Sygnet — the world's smallest baby grand piano created specifically for yachts.

2016 MYBA Charter Show Genoa

The MYBA Charter Show is the most important display of charter yachts in the Mediterranean and 2016's edition, again hosted in Genoa, Italy, was universally recognized to be the best yet. Almost all 58 yachts in the show were either new to the charter market or newly refitted, so, with only four days to inspect them, Northrop & Johnson's charter brokers had their work cut out. The MYBA Charter Show is an opportunity for Northrop & Johnson charter brokers to not only inspect yachts on behalf of clients, but also to bring themselves up to speed on changes within the industry or new cruising destinations. The 2016 seminars focused on revisions to the MYBA Charter Agreement and on Cuba and Norway as up-and-coming summer destinations.

04

Palma Superyacht Show 2016

The 2016 edition of the Palma Superyacht Show had an electric buzz. Despite poor weather, serious buyers were not deterred. Northrop & Johnson had a strong presence at the show; all Northrop & Johnson yachts on display consistently received positive attention from serious buyers. "The Palma Superyacht Show, despite being only in its fourth year, was again a great success," said Northrop & Johnson Palma Managing Director Simon J. Turner. "It is slowly growing in size and popularity — not only in the number of visitors, but also with regard to the number of yachts on display and the on-shore exhibitors."

05

Sanctuary Cove International Boat Show

As the Sanctuary Cove International Boat Show (SCIBS) wrapped, Northrop & Johnson Australia reflected on the busy show that demonstrated Australia is at a tipping point. SCIBS represented the first Australian show for the international brokerage since its move into the Australian market in February 2016. Northrop & Johnson had two charter yachts and one brokerage yacht in the show and welcomed clients and guests to its Waterscape stand and on board its yachts for cocktail events, all of which were extremely well received. "We've seen very positive growth in the Australian charter industry in recent years, which is now reflected by an increase in inquiries for buyers looking to have their own yachts run as commercial entities," said Northrop & Johnson Australia Managing Director Cameron Bray.

SMOKE ON THE WATER CIGARS & COGNAC

WORDS JULIA ZALTZMAN

What do Arnold Schwarzenegger, Sir Winston Churchill, Michael Jordan and Pierce Brosnan all have in common? No, we're not talking fame and fortune (although the two do ring true for all.) It's their love of puffing on a big fat cigar. From Groucho Marx to Al Capone, not forgetting Alfred Hitchcock along the way, great men and great cigars have always gone hand-in-hand.

But when a fine cigar is paired with a fine oak barrel-aged Cognac...that's when the magic happens. That's when Bach's "Air On the G String" (best known to you and me as the theme tune to the iconic British "Happiness is a cigar called Hamlet" adverts from 1966-97) breaks into spontaneous play. The sheer variety of cigars and Cognacs available is mind-boggling, and deciding which cigar to pair with what Cognac is a subjective matter.

Cigar aficionados spend years honing their palates and fine-tuning their preferred combinations, but for the enthusiastic amateur a good tip is to match the strength of flavor of the cigar with the strength and flavor of the Cognac, says Dawn Davies MW, buyer for The Whisky Exchange. "Cigars, like spirits, can range in flavor and different cigars will work with different spirits," she says. "Cognac is an ideal pairing as the rich spiced notes from wood aging together with the sweetness of the spirit can handle the full flavors of the cigar."

To bear the name Cognac, a brandy must be made from specific grapes

Inextricably linked to cigars is the island nation of Cuba, famed for its wide variety of smokes, including a myriad of limited editions or "Ediciones Limitadas." The recent news that the U.S. and Cuba will resume diplomatic relations means one thing for many Americans: Cuban cigars. The world-class Cohiba, the more expensive of the brands, is rumored to be the cigar rolled specifically for Fidel Castro. The manufacturer's 40th anniversary cigar, the Cohiba Behike costs $450 a piece, and these hand-rolled masterpieces should definitely catch your attention, and your lighter.

Cuba for cigars has been likened to Napa Valley, California, for wines — a prolific hub of production thanks to its ideal growing conditions, in this case for tobacco. First timers should try something along the lines of Partagas, a strong and heavy Cuban cigar with earthy, peppery flavors blended with a robust tobacco taste; the more common Romeo y Julieta contains every flavor imaginable: floral and nutty, herbal and tangy, fruity and woody without being particularly tannic.

03

04

It's not all about Cuba, however, so for something exceptional there is the King of Denmark, a Royal Danish Cigar made to order using the very rare Regal Blend and encrusted with Swarovski crystals, wrapped in gold foil embossed with the client's name — it costs a mere $150 a pop. Or for the ultimate pairing, push the boat out with Gurkha's His Majesty's Reserve (HMR); each cigar contains 18-year-old tobacco and has been soaked in a $2,500 bottle of Louis XIII de Rémy Martin Cognac. These cigars define excess and taste at $15,000 a box or $750 for a single cigar. While there are close to 200 Cognac producers in the world, a large percentage of Cognac comes from only four: Courvoisier, Hennessy, Martell and Rémy Martin.

For a brandy to bear the name Cognac, which is protected under appellation law, it must be made from specific grapes, of which Ugni blanc (or Trebbiano), known locally as St. Émilion, is the one most widely used. The brandy must be twice distilled in copper pot stills and aged at least two years in French oak barrels made from the forests of Limousin or Tronçais. Courvoisier remains the only Cognac house to control the whole process from grape to glass, while Hennessy, the largest Cognac producer in the world, was founded in 1765. A highly regarded brand, the range stretches from VS (Very Special) to XO (Extra Old) and beyond. The prestige cuvée Richard Hennessy, which is housed in a crystal decanter, is considered to be truly exceptional, priced at $3,240 per bottle.

Cognacs blended specifically to accompany cigars usually contain XO-quality Cognacs with sufficient age to develop the cigar-friendly 'rancio' traits. Cognac house Gautier even sent several of its Cognacs to Cuban cigar makers to taste and give feedback; four blends were created based on their responses. On the whole, however, it's hard to go wrong if you pair like-for-like, says Davies:

"Try a fuller XO Cognac with a more powerful flavored cigar with notes of mocha and sweet spice, such as a Cohiba Robusto, or a more delicate VSDP [Very Superior Old Pale] Cognac with a softer cigar, such as an H. Upmann Coronas Major." 🍷

SMOKE ON THE WATER
CIGARS & COGNAC

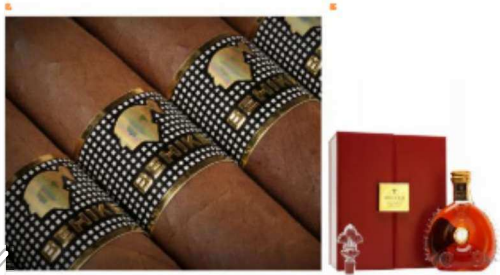

WORDS: JULIA FAITZMAN

What do Arnold Schwarzenegger, Sir
Winston Churchill, Michael Jordan and Prince Siyona all have in common?
No, we're not talking to them and we're not through the two-day rags we're all about love of pulling out a big fat cigar.
Groucho Marx or Al Capone, not to mention Alfred Hitchcock along the way, your mind and your cigar have always gone hand in hand.

But when a five cigar is paired with a five oak barrel apricot Cognac, that's when the magic takes place. That's where Buck's "Mr. the the S'ring" (first known to you and me) as the show runs to the iconic British "Happiness is a cigar called Remy" advertises (from 1966-80) breaks into spontaneous play. The three wares of cigars and Cognacs available is mind-boggling, and deciding which cigar to pair with what Cognac is a subjective matter.

Cigar aficionados spend years honing their palates and fine-tuning their preferred combinations, but for the enthusiastic amateur a good tip is to match the strength of flower in the cigar with the strength and flavor of the coffee, says Flavor Doves H.M. Sawyer for The Whisky Exchange. "Cigars, like spirits, can change in flavor and different cigars will work with different spirits," she says. "Cognac is an ideal pairing as the rich spiced notes often wind up in synch with the sweetness of the spirit can handle the full flavors of the cigar."

[illegible]

It's not all about Cuba, however, so the something interesting here is the King of Thailand, a Royal Danish Cigar made in order to give the very rare Royal Blend and associated with Swedish cigars, wrapped in gold foil to redress with the client's taste.

— Cigars are over $150 a pop for the ultimate playing, push the box up with Gleditsia's His Majesty's Reserve (HMR); each cigar contains 10 mg of tobacco and has been cooked in a 57.500 bottle of white 100 of Remy Martin Cognac. These cigars deliver nicotine and taste a $15.000 a pop or $150 for a single cigar. While there are close to 700 Cognac producers in the world, a large percentage of Cognac comes from only four: Courvoisier, Hennessy, Martell and Remy, Martin.

For a brandy to bear the name Cognac, which is produced under appellation d'origine, it must be made from specific grapes, which (Bret Muscat for Trimbach), known locally at St. Emilion, is the most widely used. The brandy must be twice distilled in copper pot stills and aged at least 180 days in French oak barrels made from the forests of Limousin or Tricastin. Conversion to metric is easy; Cognac has to contain the white alcohol from grapes to glass, while the others, the larger Cognac producers in the world, was founded in 1765. A night, repeated word, the range searches in the 95 (Very Special) to 80 (Grand Old) and beyond. The producer was Richard Hennessy, which is found in a crystal decanter, is considered to be a truly exceptional, priced at $2,740 per bottle.

Cigarettes blended specifically to accompany cigars usually contain 80-quality Cigarettes with sufficient age to develop the cigar-friendly "toasty" traits. Cigarbox brands have even sent several of its Cigarettes to Cuban cigar makers to taste and give feedback; their blends were created based on their responses. On the whole, however, it's hard to go wrong if you put the big like-like style together.

CULTURE SPY

GRAFFITI GROWS UP

WORDS DANIEL SCHIFFER

Cow people really loved this album. Having been in 30,000 B.C., prehistoric humans scratched their cave walls and ceilings as expressions of themselves, and, of course, their world. Today, this act has become somewhat evolved; taken to the covers and into the minds of the congressmen. Modern times have given artists access to tape, paint and markers previously reserved for their cave-dwelling Ancestors. Today, the message has become serious and increasingly more relevant.

Communication is intertwined with hip-hop music and New York's iconic graffiti world of the 70th century. It is a form of communication: expressing hopes, dreams and, above all, stating one's convictions.

It was, after all, thanks to the famed medieval statistician Sir Simon Stevin that in the United Kingdom, when referred to, "Imagine a city, where you could never die! (Imagine a city, where everyone could save whenever they died, when they were dead, with a million coins and five physicians, when standing as the last stop was never leaving. A city that life like a job, where everyone was insured, not just the owner, against a loss of his business. Imagine a city, like that and stop leaving against the wall it's all." And so on and so forth, and so on and so on.

"There are plenty of artists creating here, uncommissioned and in the streets, keeping alive the street-viewing, and it's really just good to see in the art form in the first place," says Williams. Chomay, a member of the Urban-based cultural platform in Umeå, says, "The beauty lies in the coexistence of the street," Umeå, created in 2000, uses its knowledge and how the street art in better space within the community as seen by artists connected with the new languages of urban inspired graphics and visual culture. And the city of Umeå finds this love, mostly.

Back To Cigars

If you're a cigar connoisseur like me, you know that Gurkha is reputable as the 'Rolls Royce' of cigars, and Cohiba does one better with Cohiba Behike as the Bentley of the brand. This prestigious cigar is an exclusive produced in extremely limited quantities. Gaining outstanding ratings, Cohiba Behike is one of the most sought-after cigars in the world! Yeah they're that good. A blend of the finest aged Cuban tobaccos including Meida Tiempo are used to create this limited run. These Cuban tobaccos are the highest leaves on the plant tending to be exceptionally strong.

Help

tobaccos are the highest leaves on the plant tending to be exceptionally strong.

With how exclusive Cohiba Behike is, expect to pay a pretty penny if you get your hands on these rare finds. Rated as one of the most expensive cigars in regular production, these Cohiba's have been heisted and made as counterfeits. As your trusted cigar supplier, we would never want you to lose out on your wallet and the real deal. So we've got your back and have the expert tips to know how to spot a fake Behike.

How to spot a fake Cohiba Behike:

Holographic Taino Indian Head – A holographic image of the famous Taino Indian head is placed front and center on the band. Take a closer look, and you should find a smaller head within the larger one. Seeing this affect lets you know you have an authentic Cohiba Behike.

Holographic Elements – You should see holograms of the word Cuba and the Taino Indian Head repeated on the gilded top edge of the band.

Nine white squares – The authentic band features nine rows of white squares in a checkered pattern that runs from the gilded top edge of the word Behike. The squares do not get cut off on the top or bottom row.

Repeating logos, checkerboard pattern – Holographic Taino Indian head logos along with boxes containing the words Behike and Cohiba Embossed lettering - The famous Cohiba on white background with a square, gold border is embossed with proper gilding. However, it is non-holographic.

One of the many factors that makes the Cohiba Behike a special cigar is the use of Media Tiempo leaves in the filler. Media Tiempo refers to a very small pair of leaves that sometimes sprout above the highest ligero priming of some tobacco plants. These leaves are small but contain very concentrated, strong, complex flavors, and add a good bit of extra character to a blend. Therefore, if you want to try something similar to the Behike, we recommend you try non-cuban cigars that use the same types of leaves. A word of caution, though, beginners need not apply. The Behike is very strong, but if you think you can handle it, the Joya de Nicaragua Antano 1970 and the Aganorsa Leaf Signature Selection are great selections to try if you want to know what the Media Tiempo priming is all about.

SEMrush Data & Metrics

Where does SEMrush data come from?

What data can SEMrush provide?

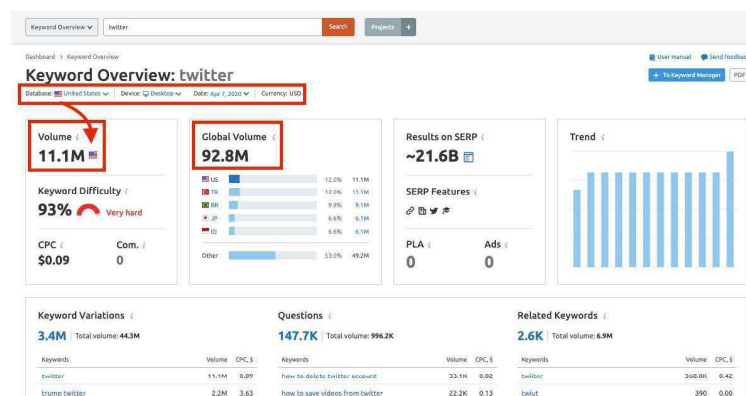

Recently viewed

What is Search Volume in SEMrush? Question

Search volume is the average number of times a specific search query is entered on a search engine per month.

The volume in the main SEMrush database represents the number of searches using national level data. Therefore, volume can change when you change the regional database you're viewing (US, Canada, UK, etc).

To find a keyword's search volume, enter the keyword in the SEMrush search bar to pull the Keyword Overview report:

In addition to the monthly search volume in a regional database, the Keyword Overview will also show you a keyword's global volume. This is the sum of the keyword's monthly search volumes across all of our regional databases.

Average monthly search volume represents the number of times the keyword was searched over the past twelve months divided by 12. For seasonal and trending keywords, this number could be higher or lower than the average in certain months.

SEMrush search volumes are updated on a monthly basis. This is to account for the most recent search data from Google and changes in the search results. Historical data is available to research the recorded average search volumes of keywords in every month dating back to January 2012.

In addition to volume, SEMrush provides the CPC and competitiveness of keywords with our Competition Level and Keyword Difficulty metrics. CPC and Competition level relate to Google Ads and Keyword Difficulty relates to SEO.

Local Search Volume

In order to view local search volume for a keyword, you will need to set up a Position Tracking or PPC Keyword Tool campaign with a set geographic location.

SEMrush Volume Calculation Method

To calculate volumes with the highest accuracy, we use machine learning algorithms and petabytes of accumulated data from search engines. The latter gives us a huge advantage in terms of the ability to train the algorithms we've created.

Here's what the process of volume calculation looks like:

1. SEMrush takes sets of data from third-party providers and overlays it with historical clickstream data acquired from reliable sources.
2. SEMrush forwards the resulting set of data to a computing cluster and receives a computational model.

What is Search Volume in SEMrush? question - Data & Metrics | SEMrush

a computational model.

3. SEMrush applies this model to get the volumes for billions of keywords.

SECOND DECLARATION OF SUSAN BAILEY

EXHIBIT 34

Name of the Party Offering the Exhibit: Empresa Cubana del Tabaco d.b.a. Cubatabaco

If you're new to cigars, you might have some simple questions that you'd rather not ask a true aficionado.

"Luckily, we're here to give you those answers so you can look and smoke like a pro. "

Q: How do I cut a cigar?

A: There are several ways to cut a cigar, check out How to Cut to see what works for you.

Q: How do I light a cigar?

A: You might be surprised at the variety of ways to light a cigar. Check out How to Light to find which way best suits you.

Q: How do I smoke a cigar?

A: Smoking cigars can be everything from a relaxing hobby to a passion. Read our article How to Smoke a Cigar for tips to get you started.

Q: Where can I buy cigars?

A: The two best places to buy cigars are from a cigar shop or an online store. Read Where to Buy to get tips on choosing where to buy and what to buy.

Q: Are you supposed to inhale cigars?

A: No, cigars are meant to be savored. Simply let the smoke wash over your palate so you can pick up the flavors of the tobacco, then slowly exhale the smoke. More advanced smokers will utilize a “retrohalé” to find even more flavor notes. The retrohalé involves exhaling a portion of the smoke through your nose, but it’s not advised for new smokers.

Q: What are cigar sizes?

A: Cigars come in many different shapes and sizes, check out our article Types of Cigar Sizes.

Q: How are cigars rolled?

A: Learn more about the delicate process that is cigar making, read our article How Cigars are Made.

Q: Do I Need a Humidor?

A: There are many ways to keep your cigars humidified, check out our article How to Store Cigars to see which method is right for you.

Q: Are Cuban cigars legal in the United States?

A: No, due to the Cuban Revolution in 1959 and subsequent embargos, Cuban cigars are not allowed to be sold in the U.S. However travelers can bring back Cuban Cigars for personal consumption with certain limitations.

Now that the new Cuba travel and commerce rules start tomorrow, does this mean Cuban cigars are no longer illegal?

Yes. You can't import them for sale, but you can bring a limited number back with you. I don't know what that number is.

So in other words, you cannot get in trouble for having Cuban cigars, but we wont be finding them at cigar/smoke shops?

Apparently. Still, you can only bring $100 in booze and/or smokes. Keep in mind that a box of Cohibas is about $300.

You can bring a limited amount in for personal use, but you won't see them in humidors just yet. The embargo is statutory; although, that has not yet stopped this President from waving his pen and ruling via executive fiat...theoretically, Congress would need to lift the embargo before you'll see normal trade with Cuba.

Absolutely not. Especially not with a Presidential election year coming up. I actually work in politics, and I'm a former congressional staffer -- the politics of lifting the embargo are too dicey especially for Republicans and especially for Republicans who need to win Florida next year.

Agreed, they are good. But I don't buy the Cigar Aficionado approach. Non cubans are there because you don't sell magazines by promoting a product nobody can buy. I expect to see a change in the list soon.

I agree with turkey vulture. If you can recall their flight, turkey vultures hold their wings at a slight angle and often rock back and forth as they soar. To me, eagles wings are flat as a plank, with the finger feather tips pointing straight out. Osprey wings are slightly bent at the elbow. They are also white underneath.(unlike a bald eagle, which are dark except for the head and tail and with which they are often confused.)

Very useful, and a perfect description of what they were doing. Turkey vulture it is.

permalink embed save parent give award

[–] Grimpler 2 points 3 years ago

I don't think its an Osprey. They have much slimmer angled wings. Defo a bird of prey, but couldn't say what it is. The broad wings are suggesting a Buzzard or small Eagle. But if they was circling then its most likely a buzzard.

See something feathered but you just can't figure out what it is? Submit descriptions, audio and/or photos of unknown birds and we'll try to help! Be sure to include the location of the sighting when submitting. Already know the ID of a tricky bird and want to see if others can guess it? Just tag [CHALLENGE] posts.

Have you found a baby bird? PLEASE READ THIS BEFORE POSTING!

Have you found an injured bird? Use this link to find licensed wildlife rehabilitation near you.

Active nest guidelines: Keep your distance from a nest if a bird is currently on it. Keep your visit to a nest brief if eggs or hatchlings are inhabiting the nest.

Want to find a bird conservation group in your country? Check out the list of international BirdLife partners.

RULES

1. Submit descriptions, audio, video and/or photos of unknown birds.

Media containing known species are better suited to r/birdpics, r/birding, r/ornithology, and others. Please respect each subreddit's rules when posting. Posts focusing on known birds will be removed at moderator discretion.

Know the ID of a tricky bird and want to see if others can guess it? Such posts, tagged with [CHALLENGE], are okay.

Please describe the situation as much as you comfortably can. At minimum, try to include the location and month of your observation.

Avoid Facebook links; Reddit automatically removes them.

2. Include geographic location in ID requests.

The location of your sighting is extremely important when it comes to identifying the bird in question. Please include a reasonably precise geographic location to help us ID your bird.

3. No joke posts.

While we enjoy good humor, this is foremost an educational subreddit. Jokes in comments are acceptable, as long as they do not confound any legitimate IDs.

4. Tag images involving death or gore as NSFW.

Right, when you can go to Cuba and bring back an unlimited amount of cigars it would be darn tempting to sell some of them. So I guess the best way would be to get a group of people together to pitch in and send someone to Cuba for the rest of the group.

Be sure to get dinner at one of our great local restaurants. We have lots of chains, but none of them beat what our local restaurants can offer. My boys love to go to Moose's Tooth for pizza. Some other family friendly locations include Spenard Roadhouse and Arctic Roadrunner (they have great burgers but take cash only).

You can drive to the Glen Alps parking lot in Chugach State Park for a terrific overview of the Anchorage Bowl, with views from Denali all the way down to Mt. Redoubt, and a series of very nice hiking trails.

Stop by Ship Creek to watch people catching silver salmon.

Visit the William Jack Hernandez fish hatchery, a brand new, state of the art salmon and trout fish hatchery. There are guided and unguided tours of the facility showing all stages of how ADF&G supplies hatchery fish to streams and lakes in the region. There's also a viewing spot on Ship Creek where you can watch salmon as they return to the hatchery- the kids will love it.

Can I buy Cuban Cigars Online If I Live in North America?

Question

I know the laws have changed and am looking to get my hands on some Cuban cigars.

First, is it legal to buy them online if I live in the U.S.

Second, does anyone have a legitimate website I can buy with confidence from?

Thanks for any advice.

It's still illegal to buy them in the USA, but not in Mexico or Canada. Not that the legality really stops anyone. Check the pinned post on r/cubancigars for reputable online retailers.

I just got my first box of cubans in last week. Ordered from ihavanas.com. Shipping may take a little longer right now because of covid-19, but they still get through. Wife ordered my cigars on May 11, they were at my door step on May 28th. iHavanas guarantees that they get through customs. If you order a box from them, use the option for them to open the box and inspect, that way you don't get moldy cigars. The box came in a sealed bag with a boveda pack.

Can I buy Cubans online legally?

Question

Our B&Ms in California aren't legally supposed to sell Cubans. Although I know they all have that back room supply of the goodie goodie for the privileged, I am not even remotely that cool... yet!

I want to be like you guys and get my hands on Cubans. They are expensive and by the looks of it, imposters are everywhere and fakes are ubiquitous.

Can I order authentic Cuban cigars online and have them legally shipped to California?

I have seen many references to iHavana. Which is the best and most reliable retail website from which I can buy Cubans?

It is at worst an angry letter and customs throws them away type of issue. Even if that happens, most vendors re-ship you another box for free. I have been using ihavanas.com and cigarsofhabanos.com for years. Every shipment has arrived without issue, it is a minimal risk financially or legally.

Also, I doubt your local B&Ms are selling Cubans in the back room illegally, it is not worth the risk to them. The regulars probably do trade/sell amongst themselves though. Ask one of the regulars at the shop if they would trade you a Cuban for a nice Davidoff of Opus of similar value and most will.

Probably more just misinterpreting the luxury. Many cigar bars and hangouts I've visited have lockers and many owners of lockers have a small stash of Cubans and other rarities they like to make conversation with. Not illegal and not a federal crime. They're not for sale and were imported for personal use. Another possible thing he got that from was probably seeing an owner with his own personal collection and offering them out to patrons he's familiar with. See it often enough and again that's perfectly legal.

If you travel abroad yourself (even traveling from California to Mexico) you can bring back 100 cigars or $800 whichever you hit first. But online is still illegal.

You can't legally sell or buy authentic Cubans anywhere in the US but it happens. You can illegally order and have them illegally shipped to you anywhere in the US from overseas vendors. Just know that there is a chance that CBP will confiscate it and send you a letter. The illegal nature of it doesn't stop people though and most don't have issues ordering and receiving online orders.

Because of the embargo american companies have been able to take the brand name and trademarks of cuban brands, and sell using that name in the USA. If they allow cubans back in those brands will be sued and will lose. In some cases its not a huge issue, Altardis owns 50% of Habanos and is the business that distributes brands like the dominican Ryjs in the USA, so they won't sue themselves.

But not all of the cuban namesake brands have that situation, many are ran by businesses other than Altardis with no connection to Habanos and will be sued and lose and those brands will disapear to make way for the real brands.

This is also the case with 'havana club' rum thats produced by Bacardi in Puerto Rico, they will be sued and lose.

will be sued and lose.

It's worth noting that in all other countries, outside of the USA these cuban namesake brands simply don't exist and can't exist, its trademark infringement.

While it sounds simple enough, its a big deal, lots of legal battles, potential for the federal government to be sued by those affected businesses. The travel ban is easy to change, allowing unlimited imports for personal use is easy to change, but allowing the brands back in opens a can of worms.

There are a couple of exceptions: San Cristobal cigars sold in the U.S. are sold as "Paradiso" cigars in countries that are allowed to sell Cuban San Cristobals, and La Aroma de Cuba cigars that are sold in the U.S. are sold as "La Aroma de Caribe" in countries that are allowed to sell ... wait, are La Aroma de Cubas even made in Cuba any more?

1 Give Award Share Report Save

krispykremekiller 11 months ago

Yes all of this is true but in some cases the same people now own the same trademarks both Cuban and non-Cuban. Also in some cases they sell under different names in both regions. The main issue now is FDA regulation and how that will impact the Cuban trademarks in the future. Unless they brought the brands to market prior to 2016 they may have a problem if they have to change the names.

If you pay for their Peace of Mind guarantee, they will pay up to $6000 in additional taxes.

I got a fee for filing late (I got charged extra bc they filed for extension which obviously didn't happen) and of course interest for non-payment.

Cuban cigars illegal?

Have been reading that certain Cuban cigars are illegal. Are they all illegal or only some of them? Thanks.

All cuban cigars are illegal to buy/sell in the United States. with the exception of pre-embargo cigars. They were legal then, brought into country legally, so theyre still legal. However, you can bring a certain amount back from other countries for personal use legally. i think its $800 worth. That being said, cuban cigars are easily obtainable if you look in the right places.

The community info page has a great primer on the legislation and politics of Cuban Cigars being sold in the US. It's not as clear cut as being legal or illegal but the TL; DR of it is: They were and then they weren't and now they are again. This is speaking of the US, of course.

Cohiba

Cigar Brand

Cohiba is a brand for two kinds of premium cigar, one produced in Cuba for Habanos S.A., the Cuban state-owned tobacco

Cohiba

Cigar Brand

Cohiba is a brand for two kinds of premium cigar, one produced in Cuba for Habanos S.A., the Cuban state-owned tobacco company, and the other produced in the Dominican Republic for US-based General Cigar Company. The name cohiba derives from the Taino word for "tobacco".
